NT Department of Education

The Northern Territory Department of Education are committed to growing the Aboriginal teaching workforce in the NT. Aboriginal educators are leaders in schools and the community, which is why we are promoting strong pathways for more Aboriginal Territorians to take up teaching.

Aboriginal Teacher Education Scholarship overview

The ATES scholarship provides financial support for NT Aboriginal residents to study a CDU Bachelor of Education course (through CDU or Bachelor Institute) or a Master of Teaching (through CDU). Recipients receive up to $15,000 per year, which is dependent on study load.

See further information about available pathways and courses below.

Early childhood teachers

Early childhood teachers play an important role in the intellectual and social development of children in their formative years. Early childhood teachers who are trained to teach primary key learning areas may also be eligible for employment to teach Pre School to Year 6: Explore Early Childhood Teaching.

Primary teachers

Primary school teachers are trained to teach students from Pre School to Year 6. They plan and deliver educational programs to assist in the intellectual, physical and social development of students who are typically aged between 5 and 11: Explore Primary Teaching.

Secondary teachers

Secondary school teachers teach one or more subjects within the school curriculum to secondary students. Subject areas include english, mathematics, science, history, geography, drama, dance, art, music, health and physical education, design, information technology, languages other than english, and home economics: Explore Secondary Teaching.

High Demand teachers

Consider becoming a teacher of a high-demand subject area and enjoy a range of career-enhancing opportunities. High priority areas include early childhood, special education and science, technology, engineering, arts and maths (STEAM). Explore STEAM
